Tempura Quadra – extra sales with high-quality accessories

Tempura Quadra is the clever further development of an already successful product. The new heating system is in addition to the round Tempura version that is still available. As a result, you are offering your customers an even bigger variety of design to suit all tastes. The Tempura Quadra Universal version also impresses due to its integrated mounting base for electronics and remote receivers.

The product benefits for you

Tempura Quadra: benefit from numerous technical highlights!

Compact housing – inconspicuous modern look weinor has designed the Tempura Quadra housing smaller but the output is the same. As a result, it provides attractive visual accents on the house facade. The huge variety of colours meets any personal design request.

Integrated intelligence – slimmer look weinor has fitted the Tempura Quadra Universal with a new base. Electronic components, such as the Hirschmann plug and remote control, can be accommodated invisibly behind a faceplate in the housing. The result: clear, slim design without any tangled cables.

2 versions – can be used almost anywhere

Tempura Quadra is available in 2 versions: for installation on the weinor Opal Design II folding arm awning and the Tempura Quadra Universal for fitting to the wall or ceiling. As a result, you are offering your number a variety of possible applications.

Your sales arguments

Convince your customers of the new Tempura Quadra's plus points!

Tested and proven system – reliable functions

The new TÜV-certified weinor heating system has been further developed based on the successful round version. Your customers can therefore build on the many plus points so far, for example the pleasant heat from infrared technology regardless of wind conditions, the fine-tuned dimmable heat intensity by BiConnect radio and the high-quality finish.

Modern square design – larger variety of shapes

Besides the current round Tempura version there is now also the Tempura Quadra in square design. This is in line with the trend for clear styles and you can offer your customers an attractive alternative in terms of design.
